

Protect Your Income with Disability Insurance

You probably have insurance for the things you depend on most. That could include protecting your home against fire or flood and protecting your vehicle in case of an accident.

You may even have life insurance to make sure that your loved ones are taken care of after you die. But have you ever considered insuring your income?

It's an important question. Your income is the cornerstone of your financial stability. It's how you afford that home's mortgage, your car's monthly payments and the food and other necessities your household needs. That stability is threatened, however, if you experience a severe injury or illness that leaves you unable to work.

Worker's Compensation Might Not Be Enough

Although worker's compensation does offer some protections, it only covers injuries that happen on the job. To qualify for coverage, you also must meet certain eligibility requirements. If you have medical insurance, that can help too, but only to cover your actual medical costs. It still won't replace your lost income while you're unable to work.

16%

of American workers had disability insurance coverage¹.

50%

of working Americans would have to tap into their savings if they couldn't work due to an injury or illness.²

If You're Not Prepared, You're Not Alone

In 2020 only 16% of American workers had disability insurance coverage.¹ That's probably why half of those surveyed said they'd have to turn to savings if they were disabled and could no longer work.²

At a time when most Americans would drain their bank accounts in just 10 weeks³, that's not a good long-term solution. Yet it's still better than the 20% of workers who said they just didn't know how they would make up the lost income.²

Disability Insurance Protects Your Paycheck

Anyone can be affected by illness or injury, but it doesn't have to threaten your financial security. With disability insurance, a portion of your income is replaced, and you can have peace of mind knowing that your family is protected, and that you can focus on healing.
